A Powerful Story of the Pacific Northwest

THE HEART OF THE RED FIRS

By ADA WOODRUFF ANDERSON

THE first novel by an author well known to magazine readers by her stories of compelling realism, having for their background the Puget Sound country, where the scene of the present book is laid. "The Heart of the Red Firs," while not historical, chronicles conditions of an epoch now drawn to a close. It contains many striking scenes, but the crowning achievement of the author is her portrayal of the heroine, the modern American woman in a new country, strong in executive ability, clear-headed, endowed with foresight and memory, but still distinctively feminine and always charming.

COMMENTS ABOUT

ELIZABETH MILLER'S New Novel

THE CITY OF DELIGHT

A ROMANCE OF THE FALL OF JERUSALEM

"‘THE CITY OF DELIGHT’ is a book of delight, outranking anything of its kind since ‘Ben-Hur,’ and far surpassing Miss Miller’s former successes. The novel is intensely ‘dramatic.’"

—Pittsburg Post.

"Elizabeth Miller has accomplished something in the way of an historical novel that has not been done since ‘Ben-Hur.’ More human than ‘Saul of Tarsus,’ more dramatic than ‘The Yoke.’ ‘THE CITY OF DELIGHT’ is a book of thrilling interest."

—Indianapolis News.

"‘THE CITY OF DELIGHT’ has a great theme handled with perfect reverence, astonishing knowledge, unfaltering directness and splendid dramatic ability."—Baltimore American.

"‘THE CITY OF DELIGHT’ has life and strength, and is illumined with the colors of the glorious east. It is a novel that in uninterrupted interest will hold its own with any piece of this year’s fiction, and, more than that, will give the reader definite pictures to take with him from the reading, and pleasant memories, two things which in the end count highest in the estimation of a book."—The Chicago Tribune.

THE REILLY & BRITTON CO.
PUBLISHERS CHICAGO

258-260 Wabash Avenue

We announce for publication, April 25th, THE BRIDE'S COOK BOOK, which, by reason of its unique contents and arrangement, its excellent manufacture and particular availability as a gift to the young wife and housekeeper, we will advertise widely in many important national mediums.

The advertisement appearing on the left will appear, first, in THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL, out April 20th.

Every dealer should be prepared to fill orders on this book.

This is an entirely original cook book, specially prepared for the inexperienced housewife, to whom it will be a source of comfort and help.

THE BRIDE'S COOK BOOK tells all about what to eat, and when and how to cook it.

The recipes are proportioned for two people—with instructions for enlarging the recipe to suit the number of persons to be served.

The text is illustrated by chapter title pages in 4 colors, with a frontispiece of the bride in 8 colors by F. S. Manning.

The dainty manner in which it is manufactured makes this book especially appropriate as a gift.

We would be pleased to correspond with dealers concerning special displays.

Starting with the June bride season, THE BRIDE'S COOK BOOK should be an all the year around seller.

COUNTRY RESIDENCES

In Europe and America

By LOUIS V. LE MOYNE

Beginning with Italy, following with France, England, and lastly America, the author, an expert architect and landscape gardener, here shows an unmistakable series of architectural developments; it is the first volume ever published with this interesting historical sequence. Complete ground plans are given of each of the forty-six places included—drawn in profile, and practically impossible to obtain elsewhere; in addition, 500 superb photographs showing details of drives, fountains, gardens, etc.—all the author's own work. By far the most luxurious and valuable book of the season. Net, $7.50.

THE SHELL BOOK

By JULIA ELLEN ROGERS, author of "The Tree Book"

The author's splendid "Tree Book" was called the "easiest way to know the trees," and "The Shell Book" is likewise notable for its simple and interesting handling of its subject.

It is the first popular book on shells, authoritative, but with few technical terms. The cultivation of oysters and other shell-fish is described, and instructions are given for making aquaria. With its 8 plates in color and 473 black-and-white photographs, "The Shell Book" is one of the handsomest nature books we have ever published. Net, $4.00.

Prose Every Child Should Know

Edited by MARY E. BURT

This book is particularly adapted to classes in oratory and to the closing exercises of schools. It is a young people's guide to good authors—from Homer and Æsop to Lincoln, Ruskin, Cable, Stockton, Markham, and other modern writers. Uniform with "Poems Every Child Should Know." Decorated. JUST PUBLISHEDTHE LIFE AND LETTERS OF
GEORGE BANCROFT

By M. A. DE WOLFE HOWE

Illustrated. 2 volumes. $4.00 net, postage extra

The most important book of biography and history of recent years. The long life of George Bancroft (1800-1891) almost covered the nineteenth century; and during the greater part of it, as scholar, historian, Ambassador to England and Germany, and Secretary of the Navy, he had a wider personal acquaintance with the great figures among his contemporaries at home and abroad than perhaps any other American.

SOME OF THE CONTENTS OF THE VOLUMES

Student Life at Gottingen, 1818-1820
The Ceremony of Taking the Doctor's Degree
Visits to Goethe and to Wolff and Humboldt
Meetings with Lord Byron and Lafayette
His Experience as Secretary of the Navy
Minister to England in 1846

Visit to Paris in 1847-49, and Anecdotes of Guizot, Lamartine, Benjamin Constant and
Louis Philippe

Minister to Germany, 1867-1874

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY have decided to withhold the publication of "Sowing Seeds in Danny," by the new Canadian humorist, Mrs. Nellie L. McClurg, until July 15. The book is especially appropriate for summer reading.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just brought out a helpful book entitled "Building a Home," by H. W. Desmond, editor of The Architectural Record, and his associate editor, H. W. Frohne. The book covers all necessary details on the subject and explains the text with a large number of exteriors and interiors of homes, plans, diagrams, etc. They have just put on the market a fourth edition of "Dr. Ellen."

DANA ESTES & Co. have just ready a volume entitled "Woman's Cause," by Carol Norton, author of "Studies in Character," a graceful and delightful book on a vital subject by a prominent exponent of the New Thought, that will specially interest Christian Scientists and intelligent inquirers. They will publish on May 1 "A Comedy of Mammon," by Ina Garvey, a clever and amusing satire on the follies of the smart set of English society, with interesting side-lights on their would-be associates and imitators. William Fuller Curtis has furnished some portrait sketches for the book.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will bring out shortly a work on "Heredity," by Professor J. Arthur Thomson, of the University of Aberdeen, which in lucid and masterly summaries states the net results of scientific research and experiment in the field this volume make its own. One of the broad conclusions emphasized in the book is this: We know of no instance of the transmission of an acquired character. They will publish in June the "Manual of American Literature," prepared by the professors of the English department at Cornell and edited by Theodore Stanton. This is the volume with which the Tauchnitz edition is to celebrate its 4000th issue.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just published two notable garden books, "Yard and Garden," by Tarkington Baker, of the Indianapolis News, and "Window Gardening," by Herman B. Dorner, manuals respectively for outdoors and indoors. Both works are based on conditions in America, are simple, explicit, fully indexed and adequately illustrated. Successive chapters in "Yard and Garden" deal with The Yard, Planning the Garden, How to Plan Lawns, Vines, Annuals, Hardy Perennials, Bulbous Plants, Irises, Shrubs, Trees, Soil and Fertilizers, Insects and Diseases. Mr. Dorner's book is the first on a subject which grows more and more popular.

THE REILLY & BRITTON Co. have just published "Three Weeks in Holland and Belgium," a new book of travel by John U. Higginbotham, author of "Three Weeks in Europe," which it matches in size, style and binding. Each book has fifty-two half-tone illustrations from pictures taken by Mr. Higginbotham, and the text is built upon his own experiences while making these short tours. "Three Weeks in Europe," which heretofore listed at $1.25 net, has been changed to $1.50 regular, and the new book will be listed at the same price. It is the intention to continue this series from year to year for the benefit of travellers who have only a short time to spend on their European vacations.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, Edwin A. Indices to Diatessarica: [harmony of the four Gospels;] with a specimen of research. N. Y., Macmillan, 1908. 62+152 p. 8°, cl., *$1.25 net.

Published in the belief that they may be of use to a student of the Gospels in ascertaining the truth that lies beneath their often divergent accounts. They are prefixed by "a specimen of research" consisting of the account of a critical investigation of Josephus's version of The Sweetening of the Waters of Marah. This forms a practical example illustrating how the "Indices" might be employed.

✓ Anderson, Mrs. Ada Woodruff. The heart of the red fir: a story of the Pacific northwest; il. by C: Grunwald. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. c. 313 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A story of the Puget Sound country—Seattle, Olympia, and a settlement in the neighborhood of Mount Rainier—in the seventies, after the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad. It is not historical, but chronicles conditions of that epoch now drawn to a close. The author is a native of the Pacific West, and one of the best known literary women of Seattle, Wash., where she resides. She has been writing short stories of the West for the magazines since 1900. This is her first novel.

Andrews, Bessie Ayars. Colonial and old houses, of Greenwich, N. J. Vineland, N. J., Frank D. Andrews, 1907, [1908.] 87 p. il. pls. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

✓ Austin, Mrs. Mary Hunter. Santa Lucia: a common story. N. Y., Harper, 1908. c. 346 p. D. †$1.50.

Reflects the life of a small California town, with its aspiring college, its narrow social order and its pretensions to culture and progress. One of the heroes is a professor of biology from the East, who imagines himself in love with a beautiful brainless girl, whom he marries. Another typifies western "push." He is married to a cultured young woman, who finds her home very dull and commonplace. The complications that arise in the lives of these mismatched couples are pictured in a very up-to-date style. By the author of "Isidro" and "The land of little rain."

Ballard, Frank, D.D. Christian essentials: a re-statement for the people of to-day. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1908.] 17+354 p. O. cl., *$1.50 net.

The main purpose of these studies, so says the author, "is to set forth—in full view of the newest theology, as well as of the latest naturalism—a reasoned summary of what seems to the writer really essential in outlining such Christianity as deserves the name."

Barnes, Ja. The clutch of circumstance. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. c. 8+386 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

After many years abroad Lawrence Kellogg returns to the place where he was born, a town in western New York, the possessor of a fortune and the title of doctor. He settles in a modest way in a small office and begins to take up the threads of the past. His special chum, now a minister, has married the girl Lawrence loved ten years ago and lost mysteriously. In trying to unravel the mystery he is brought in close contact with his old sweetheart, and discovers she is very unhappy and still loves him. He also discovers the minister is a drug fiend and is troubled with pangs of conscience. Out of these conditions a tragedy grows, and the doctor is accused of having murdered the minister and is put on trial for his life. A dashing widow is involved in the story. The circumstantial evidence for a time seems overwhelming.

Barrows, D: P. A history of the Philippines. Indianapolis, Ind., Bobbs-Merrill Co., [1908.] c. '05. 332 p. il. col. maps, D. cl., $1.

First published in 1905 by the American Book Co.

Baum, Millicent. The little helper: a supplementary primer to accompany "The rational method in reading." N. Y., Silver, Burdett & Co., [1908.] c. '07. 96 p. il. (partly col.) D. cl., 28 c.

Author, principal of Public School no. 168, New York City. The lessons consist of attractive little stories that are easy of comprehension and within the child's experience.

Begbie, Harold. The vigil. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1908. c. 392 p. D. †$1.50.

A young Englishman of good family leaves Oxford, having studied for the church. He has doubts of his fitness and for a time settles quietly in a rural district, devoting himself to books and art. Then he decides to take orders and becomes a ritualistic English Churchman, taking the vow of celibacy. He is sent to a small, hopeless town by the sea. He elevates the tone and works hard to improve his parish. Called to the deathbed of a dissolute physician he finds he can say nothing to comfort the man, who sends for the Methodist minister. This starts thoughts in the ritualist and much of the book is given to his self-examination in many vigils. A rich young woman of strong character aids him in his work; he finally leaves the town and becomes a socialistic revivalist—denouncing the present weakness of the church in truly uplifting humanity.

Belloc-Lownes, Mrs. Marie Adelaide. Barbara Rebell. N. Y., B. W. Dodge & Co., 1908. c. '07. il. in col. 12°, (Popular priced copyrights.) cl., 50 c.

Benjamin, Marcus. John Bidwell, pioneer: address delivered before the Society of California Pioneers of Washington, D. C. Wash., D. C., published by the Society, 1908. il. 12°, pap., gratis.

John Bidwell came from Chautauqua Co., N. Y. He started West in 1839 and reached California in 1841 with first overland party. In 1849 he obtained the Rancho Chico of 22,000 acres where he remained all his life.

✓ Bennet, Rob. Ames. Into the primitive; with il. in color by Allen T. True. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1908. c. 313 p. O. cl., $1.50.

A shipwreck on the uninhabited African coast, from which only three passengers are saved is the starting point of the story. One is a beautiful American girl, the daughter of a millionaire, the others an Englishman and an American engineer brave and capable, though lacking polish. Nothing is saved from the wreck, the practical sense of the American alone saving the party from worse than starvation, in a wilderness full of horrors. An attachment between the girl and the American grows apace, serving to refine his rougher qualities and strengthening and broadening her own personality.

✓ Bentley, Arthur F. The process of government: a study of social pressures. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1908. c. 15+3-501 p. O. cl., $3 net.

This book is the technical study of the methods which must be used in the scientific interpretation of the phenomena of government. The author holds that the manner in which ideas and beliefs are made to do service in most present interpretations is artificial and unsatisfactory. It is said that no such detailed attempt to grapple with the intricacies of public opinion on a strictly social basis has hitherto been made.

Boyce, Neith, [pseud. for Mrs. Hutchins Hapgood.] The bond. N. Y., Duffield & Co., 1908. c. 426 p. D. cl., $1.50.

An analysis of the marriage bond in its entirely modern aspect. The couple who illustrate the writer's conception of matrimony, as she sees it to-day in New York City among a certain set, are artists and bohemians. When they marry they agree to preserve their individuality by each going his or her own way and they retain their old friendships. They enjoy life thoroughly for a few years. Then come children and debts and finally jealousies, with a threatened tragedy. Told with the bright dialogue that made "The eternal spring" and the author's other books so readable.

Bradford, Gamaliel, jr. Matthew Porter: a story of to-day; with front. in color by Griswold Tyng. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1908. c. 419 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The political and social life of Boston forms the background. There is about to be an election for governor of the state, and the intrigues of the bosses and leaders to nominate their own man are depicted with vivid realism. Matthew Porter, an educated, high-minded man, becomes the Democratic candidate. A woman belonging to Boston's most aristocratic set, is brought to the point of receiving him, although "the people," he represents are "disgusting" to her. The development of Porter's character and the strong influence it has upon the society woman who is a great factor in his final success, is rich in real interest. Author of "The private tutor."

The author of "The Illini" and "Lincoln at Gettysburg" presents some of the pivotal experiences in his long career of public usefulness. He knew intimately many of the great men and women of this country, his recollections covering our history from the period of the anti-slavery agitation down to the present time. The book is not a formal autobiography, but presents in essay form incidents in his life fraught with interest and meanings. Col. Carr's public career has identified him with the Republican party since its inception, throwing him into contact with Lincoln, Douglas, Grant, Sherman, Logan and the great ones of the Civil War, and has included his service for four years as Minister from this country to the Court of Denmark.

Two men meet in a park in suburban London and get into a discussion about anarchism. The one promises the other a most interesting evening, if he will swear never to betray what he has seen. From here follows a series of the most astonishing adventures, indescribably funny and startlingly clever. One of the men is a detective, and is admitted into the innermost circle of anarchists. The descriptions of the anarchists' meetings, their strongholds, and the anarchists themselves are very amusing. By the author of "Varied types," "Derelicts," etc.

This volume treats of an episode in American history which has received scarcely any attention, viz.: the mutiny of the Pennsylvania line in June, 1783, the consequent flight of the Continental Congress from Philadelphia and the five months' sojourn of that body at Princeton. The narrative has two aims in view: first, a fuller knowledge of the Congressional history of the summer and autumn of 1783, and secondly, an account of Congressional life on its informal side when Princeton was the national capital. Mr. Collins was formerly reference librarian of Princeton University.

The "Prophet of peace" was a member of the Society of Friends during Napoleon's rule. She was born in the North of England, married outside the Society and emigrated to America in search of peace. After prosperous years in farming a strict Puritan falls in love with their daughter. His people use desperate means to prevent the union and those who would use no other weapons than soft answering tongues suffer grievous wrongs. Through all the faithful mother maintains her character of "Prophet of peace" and in the end the wicked are defeated and peace comes to stay.

They have no permanent residence here, in a short time their stories are told and they pass on to other scenes. How they kill time while waiting, the new interests that often arise in their lives and lead to dramatic endings are strongly depicted by the author of "Where the trail divides." The strong primitive western man plays a part in righting some of the wrongs of the story in his own simple, honest way. As a foil and a contrast, one of a class the author calls "effete easterners" is pitted against him.

Mr. Masson imagines Socrates, a garrulous old man from Athens, just arrived in New York in the steerage of the "Lusitania." At his hotel he discusses Americans with all comers. These dialogues, made up of equal parts of pungent wisdom and fine humor, deal chiefly with our intense modernity and are entitled: Married life; The gambler; The bridge player; On socialism; Learning; On surgeons; The tariff; Philosophy; The missionary; The nature of happiness.

An interesting introduction gives a general discussion of the fundamental principles of beauty and health. Much of the book is concerned with reasonable and common-sense rules and suggestions as to the care of the body. The nature and use of cosmetics and "beautifiers," harmful and harmless, are discussed frankly and fully. Many valuable prescriptions and practices noted and gathered by the author during her extended travels and stage experiences are here given for the benefit of her fellow women. These have either been tried by her with success or were vouched for by competent authority.

Printers and printing in Providence, 1762-1907; prepared by a committee of Providence Typographical Union, No. 33, as a souvenir of the 50th anniversary of its institution. Providence, R. I., William Carroll, [1908.] 212+98 p. il. pors. O. cl., $2.

In 1903 a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the proper observance of this semi-centennial anniversary. It was decided the most fitting anniversary memorial would be a book containing as much as possible about the craft in Providence. The work of research was conscientiously performed and information concerning men and events preceding the organization of the Union in 1857 was diligently sought from old printers, files of the Typographical Journal, old city directories, etc. Establishing an 8 hour day in the craft with its heavy financial burdens delayed the collecting of money; it was decided no advertisements should be taken, and thus the book appears a little after the day of the anniversary. A most interesting souvenir volume and full of valuable history and experience for all printers.

The Encyclical Letter of Pius x. given at Rome, September 8, 1907, dealt with the doctrines of Modernists. The Pope explains that "the Modernist sustains and includes within himself a manifold personality—he is a philosopher, a believer, a theologian, a historian, a critic, an apologist, a reformer. These rôles must be clearly distinguished one from another by all who would grasp the outcome of their doctrines." This Letter was answered by men within the Catholic church who are now excommunicated and suspended. They attempt to gather together all the assured results of biblical and historical criticism and to prove that the Church of Rome will only lose by not taking into consideration the growing knowledge of the world, which cannot interfere with a deep spiritual faith in Christianity.

Traces the lives of two young people who grow up near together in happy Catholic homes, in which lovely mothers are the chief influence. After the mother of Austin Mansfield dies his troubles are added to by the unexpected marriage again of his father. His father for a long time had held a mortgage on John Naughton's farm. After Naughton, who is the father of the girl Austin loves, has found coal on the farm the mortgage is foreclosed. There is suspicion of double dealing, the families are estranged, years passing before the young people are again brought together.

He was early impressed with the noticeable differences between the tribes of Southern Mexico and has now made a serious study of their types. Lumholtz's "Unknown Mexico" is the only travel book in English this far that covers a portion of the same country. The author confines himself to ethnography. He has measured 100 men and 25 women in each tribe; has made photographs—portraits, dress, occupations, buildings, landmarks; and has plaster busts made of five individuals in each tribe. In this book he writes for the general reader, but in his preface gives a list of the information he has already published in pamphlets for the scientist.

A novel based on the play, "The undertow," and written by the author of "Paid in full." It is a story of a great struggle for the control of political forces for the personal benefit of a wealthy capitalist in the middle West. An old-fashioned southern girl becomes very closely associated with this man, who treats her as his daughter. When his political opponent and this girl first meet they fall in love. Spurred on by the desire to do something that will make him worthy of Mary, Richard Wells fights the colossal power of the capitalist, which results in an unexpected issue.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 11, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CLOSE BUYING.

It has been estimated that overbuying probably costs the merchants of this country two dollars for every twenty-five cents lost through not buying enough. It is not likely that any one can know the exact proportion, but the estimate is probably on the safe side. Buying beyond the possible demand may mean buying low, but it is risky because the extra profit is quickly wiped out if at the end of the season the dealer has a lot of stock left over which must be unloaded at a sacrifice or pushed at the expense of other stock, or, as in the case of new copyrighted books, must be held over until the season opens, when they may be sold at reduced prices, thus tying up money which could be invested in stock that would turn over at a profit two or three times before the tied-up stock could be released.

No store can afford to be without the goods in demand; but it would be better to buy piecemeal, even at a higher price, toward the inevitable decline of a run upon certain novelties or fads, whether books or stationery, than to tie up capital for months in slow-selling stock, or to sacrifice a good part of the profits on such lines in order to close them out and be ready to buy the lines that are bound to supersede the old ones. It is good business policy to buy enough, even at times to be a little ahead of the demand; but for a small dealer to load up beyond the possibility of selling, simply to get the quantity price, is bound to end in serious embarrassment if not in actual ruin.

There are some manufacturers, as W. H. Black, the clever advertising manager of the "Butterick Trio," recently pointed out, who seem to think that the average retail dealer is a speculator. They delude themselves that the easiest way to get his order is to make the margin of profit on their product so wide that dealers would speculate on it. This plan would work out all right if it were true that the average retail dealer is a speculator. But he is not. He is a merchant. He came into existence to supply the wants of his customers and those whom he hopes by his knowledge and enterprise to make his customers. The principal reason he has for ordering any product is that his customers want it, or that he may convince them that they must have it. But high finance does not appeal to him, and if he is lured into it in the hopes of disposing of something for which he has no outlet, both he and his tempters will come to grief. And this is not a matter of mathematics, but of common sense.

PULP AND PRINT PAPER INQUIRY.

SPEAKER CANNON on April 2 introduced two resolutions in the House which foreshadow an effort to be made at this session to remove the duty from wood pulp and print paper. The resolutions took the form of directions to the Attorney-General and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to furnish information to the House in regard to the operations of the International Paper Company of New York and other corporations engaged in the manufacture or sale of wood pulp or print paper.

The Attorney-General is directed by one resolution to inform the House what steps have been taken to investigate the so-called paper trust and to prosecute it as a combination in violation of the anti-trust law. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor is directed to send to the House information as to steps which may have been taken to investigate the trust by the Bureau of Corporations as authorized by law.

Speaker Cannon when asked what was sought to be accomplished by his resolutions and his reasons for introducing them, said: "The duty on print paper is 15 per cent. ad valorem, and has been the same since 1890 under the McKinley law, the Wilson law and the Dingley law, covering a period of eighteen years. It is claimed that the price of this article has been advanced within the last few months, largely more than equal to the duty.

"The newspaper publishers of the United States claim that the manufacture of wood pulp and print paper have by agreement and combination, even covering arrangements with Canadian manufacturers, arbitrarily limited the production and advanced the price of print paper. If the claim of these publishers is correct, then the manufacturers of print paper are subject to penalty, and the trust can be dissolved and enjoined by proceedings in equity in any of the United States courts where they or any of them can be found; and if the claim of the newspaper publishers is correct, the advance in the price is not due to the duty, but resulting from the illegal trust and combination. If the small duty were repealed it would not interfere with the illegal trust agreement."

The resolutions reached Attorney-General Bonaparte on April 9, and were referred by him to Mr. Purdy, assistant to the Attorney-General, who has been charged with the preparation of a reply to the House. It is understood that this reply will show that the Department of Justice already has taken steps to bring the officials of the paper company to trial on criminal charges, and probably for that reason it will not be possible to furnish to Congress much detailed information which might jeopardize the success of the prosecution.

JOHN S. LEECH APPOINTED PUBLIC PRINTER.

JOHN S. LEECH, of Bloomington, Ill., now Public Printer in the Philippines, has been appointed Public Printer at Washington, D. C., by the President, to succeed Mr. Stillings, whose resignation was accepted some days ago.

Mr. Leech served successively as compositor, proofreader and foreman in the Government Printing Office from 1889 to 1901, at which time he was selected as Public Printer for the Philippines. He has made for himself a record as an organizer and administrative officer there, according to reports in the possession of the insular bureau. He is a union man, but has received an honorary suspension to permit of his occupancy of his present official position.

Mr. Leech is about forty-five years of age. He has been informed by cable of his appointment, and requested to report for duty at the earliest practicable time.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY.

IN a month or two hence Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will have completed arrangements to incorporate their firm under the laws of Massachusetts and under the name of Houghton Mifflin Company, for the continuation of the business of manufacturing and publishing books, founded by Henry Oscar Houghton more than fifty years ago. This will involve no change in the management or conduct of the business, the present partners retaining their full interest and active participation. Messrs. James Duncan Phillips, Stephen B. Davol, Roger L. Scaife, Edward R. Houghton and George Harrison Mifflin, Jr., who have been actively associated with the business for several years, will all become members of the new corporation.

The Atlantic Monthly, which has been published by the house since 1873, will hereafter, beginning with the August number, be published by The Atlantic Monthly Company, of which Ellery Sedgwick, (formerly editor of the American Magazine and more recently literary adviser of D. Appleton & Co.,) Waldo E. Forbes, MacGregor Jenkins and Roger Pierce will be members, Houghton Mifflin Company retaining an important interest. No change in the character or general conduct of the magazine is contemplated. Bliss Perry continues as editor, and the magazine will still be printed at the Riverside Press, and issued from 4 Park Street, Boston.

S. S. MCCLURE IN CONTROL OF MAGAZINE AND PUBLISHING CONCERN.

THE control of the S. S. McClure Company and the McClure Company, which publish McClure's Magazine and books, has finally passed into the hands of S. S. McClure, the founder of the companies. The minority of the stock has been held by Harold Roberts, who has been secretary and treasurer of the companies since the Phillips interests withdrew to take up the publication of the American Magazine in May, 1906.

Succeeding Harold Roberts, Cameron MacKenzie, son-in-law of Mr. McClure, who has been managing editor of the magazine, becomes secretary and treasurer of the two companies. Roberts succeeded Oscar W. Brady, who had been secretary and treasurer of the companies since 1895. He had before that been connected with the American Tobacco Company. S. S. McClure has owned a voting majority of the stock, but heretofore has not had complete control of the stock of the company.

OLD BOOKTRADE LANDMARKS DISAPPEAR.

THE SINCLAIR HOUSE, at Broadway and Eighth Street, New York City, known for the last fifty years to the booktrade throughout the country, closed its doors on April 4. The place, part of which was built in 1787, was opened as a roadhouse in 1840, and in 1855 was purchased by Robert Sinclair, whose name it bore ever after that. In 1863 A. S. Ashman became the proprietor and ran it until 1905, when he died, since which time the hotel has been conducted by his widow.

Such men as Horace Greeley, William Cullen Bryant, Grover Cleveland and Sam Ward, (in whose honor the Sam Ward steak was named,) were among the many famous old New Yorkers who were frequent visitors of the Sinclair House.

Marion Crawford's novel, "Katherine Lauderdale," was partly written in the Sinclair House, and its scene is laid in the neighborhood. H. C. Bunner, while writing his "Short Sixes" and Washington Square stories, Paul Potter, the playwright, Paul du Chaillu, the explorer, and other writers also made the hotel their headquarters a quarter of a century ago.

The hotel, being in the heart of the book-trade from 1870 till a comparatively recent period, was ever a famous stopping place for out-of-town booksellers, especially in the days of the trade sales at Leavitt's on the eastern end of the block.

On the same day, the old Fifth Avenue Hotel, a favorite resort in recent years of many of the up-town booksellers, closed its doors, leaving now only the Astor House as a relic of the gatherings of the booksellers who attended the sales of Cooley, Keese & Co. and Bangs & Co., and visited the trade when it was located below Chambers Street and Broadway.

WORK OF THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN.

At the session of the New York East Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, held in the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 2, the Rev. George P. Mains, D.D., one of the publishing agents of the Methodist Book Concern, read to the conference the concern's report for the year 1907. He announced that the book concern showed a surplus in its treasury of over $700,000. The dividend declared for the current year is $160,000. The share in the dividend due to the New York East Conference for the maintenance of its fund for superannuated ministers he gave as $2760. He passed a check for this amount to the presiding bishop. Within the last twelve years, he said, the sales of the Methodist Book Concern in New York and Cincinnati amounted to $25,558,379.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

APRIL DINNER OF THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE April dinner of the Booksellers' League, given at the Aldine Association on the evening of April 8, was well attended and enjoyed as few have been. After the dinner, the president of the League, Charles L. Bowman, introduced Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the department of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park, who gave a popular talk on snakes in general, which he illustrated with some living specimens. Mr. Ditmars was succeeded by Allen Samuel Williams, the naturalist, who talked long but well on the training of wild animals. This talk was to be illustrated by some fine stereopticon views, which could not be given because the Aldine Association was warned by the fire insurance underwriters against the use of stereopticons of any kind. Mr. Williams's talk, however, was altogether enjoyable and instructive, even if it did lack the picture annex. Captain Jack Bonavita, the king of lion tamers, having had twenty-seven male lions in the arena at one time, in a modest and interesting manner gave his experiences with his various animals, one of which, three years ago, at Coney Island, chewed off his right arm. It was after eleven o'clock when the League broke up for home.

OBITUARY.

JOHN H. BLACK.

JOHN H. BLACK, for twenty-eight years representative of the firm of McLoughlin Brothers, died suddenly on Saturday morning, April 4, at the Walton in Philadelphia. His remains were brought to New York and the funeral services held on the evening of April 7 in the Masonic Temple under the auspices of his lodge, York, F. and A. M. A large gathering of his relatives and friends, among them a goodly representation of members of the trade, was present to pay their last respects.

John H. Black, who by his colleagues was regarded as the dean of their profession, was born in New York City, June 10, 1840. He received his education in the Mechanics' Institute in New York City and in Union Hall Academy, at Jamaica, L. I. In 1861 he started travelling on his own account, carrying the lines of several houses. In 1862 he sold photograph albums for Werner & Huber, then on Frankfort Street in New York City, with whom he remained until they retired from the business. During President Johnson's administration Mr. Black was appointed United States gauger in New York, under the direction of H. A. Smith, who at that time was also president of the Central National Bank. After leaving the Government service Mr. Black went on the road for Victor E. Mauger, the agent for Goodall & Sons, manufacturers of playing cards, who were then in business on Reade Street, New York. In 1880 he joined the force of L. Prang & Co., and a year later he became the representative of McLoughlin Brothers. In their service he visited nearly every section of the country, and several times went abroad to introduce the McLoughlin goods to the English market, paving the road for a surprisingly large and profitable trade there. Mr. Black, who up to within a few weeks ago, was still hale and hearty, made regular trips through the West to the Pacific Coast.

He had but just returned from a successful trip to the coast, (during which time his wife died,) and was on his way again to the West. A slight indisposition prevented his starting on time, and it was not until March 30 that he proceeded to Philadelphia, stopping, as usual, at the Continental Hotel. For several days he was able to supervise his sample room, but on Thursday, April 2, his condition became worse, so that his friends induced him to take a room in the Walton where he might be more quiet. After Thursday he sank rapidly, pneumonia having set in, and on Saturday morning the end came suddenly, as he had always wished it and while he was practically "in harness."

In Mr. Black's death his firm loses a competent and faithful worker, and his colleagues a generous and sympathetic friend. Cast in a large mold and cut out for a man's work in a field and in a day when that work required rugged and aggressive workers, John H. Black in temperament was as gentle as a woman. Without stint or questioning he dispensed charity and sympathy, and no one burdened with care ever left his presence uncheered or un comforted. His genial and courteous manner won for him a host of friends in the retail booktrade as well as among his colleagues, who twice elected him to the presidency of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers and the chief officer of several other organizations more or less closely connected with the trade.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FRANK E. BRONSON, who for many years kept a newsstand at Eighth Avenue and 136th Street, New York City, died on April 2. It was always thought that Bronson was poor, and when his wife died several years ago his neighbors raised a purse for him to pay the expenses of the funeral, and the druggist, outside of whose store Bronson had his stand, paid for a license for the man. On April 1, the day before he died, Bronson summoned several friends to his bedside and turned over to them bank books showing deposits in several savings banks, amounting to between $12,000 and $13,000.

JAMES JEFFREY ROCHE, poet and editor, American Consul at Berne, died in that city on April 3. Roche was born at Mount Mellick, Ireland, May 31, 1847. In 1866 he went to Boston, Mass., where he engaged in mercantile pursuits, but devoted his leisure to literature. In 1883 he became assistant editor of The Boston Pilot, under John Boyle O'Reilly, and on the death of the latter, in 1890, Roche succeeded him as editor-in-chief of that newspaper. This post he resigned in 1904 to accept appointment as United States Consul at Genoa, where he remained until April, 1907, when he was transferred to Berne. As a writer of both poetry and prose Mr. Roche gained a wide reputation. His published works include "Songs and Satires," 1886; "Life of John Boyle O'Reilly," 1891; "The Story of the Filibusters," 1891; "Ballads of Blue Water," 1895; "Her Majesty the King," 1898; "The Vase and Other Bric-a-Brac," 1900; "By Ways of War" and "Sorrows of 'Sap' Ed," 1904.

THE REV. DR. EDWARD ABBOTT, rector emeritus of St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church at Cambridge, Mass., brother of Dr. Lyman Abbott, died on April 5 in Boston. Dr. Abbott was born in Farmington, Me., July 15, 1841, the fourth son of Jacob Abbott, the author. He was graduated from New York University in 1860, afterward studying theology at Andover Theological Seminary. He was ordained in 1865, and for four years was pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church at Cambridgeport, which he founded. He was associate editor of The Congregationalist from 1869 to 1878 and editor-in-chief and proprietor of The Literary World from 1887 to 1893, and again from 1895 to 1903. In 1879 he was ordained a Protestant Episcopal priest, and after that was connected with St. James's Church in Cambridge. Among his books are "Conversations of Jesus," a life of "Phillips Brooks," a "Paragraph History of the United States," a "Paragraph History of the Revolution," "Revolutionary Times," the Long Look books and several other Sunday-school books, and a collection of verse entitled "The Baby's Things."

THE REV. FREDERIC MEYER BIRD died on April 2 at South Bethlehem, Pa. Mr. Bird was born in Philadelphia, June 28, 1838. Mr. Bird was one of the most distinguished hymnologists of the country. In 1865, in association with the Rev. Dr. B. M. Schmucker, he edited "The Lutheran Ministerium Hymns," and afterwards, (in 1868,) revised "The General Council's Church Book." He also was interested in the editing of the Presbyterian and Moravian hymn book. In 1867 he edited "Charles Wesley Seen in His Finer and Less Familiar Poems." With Bishop Odenheimer, Mr. Bird revised "Songs of the Spirit," (1871,) while to Bishop Perry's "History of the American Episcopal Church," he contributed a monograph on the "Hymnology of the Church." As a numismatic Mr. Bird was among the few in America who was regarded as an authority. His widespread literary interests are exhibited in his editorship of Lippincott's Magazine, 1891-99, and his work on Chandler's Cyclopedia.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE body of Emanuel Swedenborg, mystic and writer, was taken on April 7 from the vault in front of the communion table in the Swedish church in Princess Street, London, where it was deposited in 1772, and started on its journey to Sweden on the Swedish cruiser Fylgla, to be buried in Stockholm. Among those present at the ceremony was Freehere Leyonhjen, a descendant of Swedenborg.

ROBERT HUNTER, the Socialist, was thrown from a horse near his home in Noroton, Conn., on April 9, and severely injured. His collarbone is broken and he may be hurt internally.

THE occasion of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's recent eighty-sixth birthday was the cause of many affectionate congratulations from his host of friends. It would perhaps be hard to state which of Dr. Hale's several attainments have brought him the greatest honor, but probably his authorship has given him the widest renown. His publishers, Little, Brown & Company, announce a new edition of his famous "Lights of Two Centuries."

SAMUEL EBERLY GROSS, who some years ago attracted attention through his successful suit against Edmond Rostand for appropriating Gross's play, "The Merchant Prince of Cornville," as the basis of his "Cyrano de Bergerac," is reported to have lost his millions in unwise speculation. Mr. Gross, the report further states, has for the last seven months been an inmate of a sanatorium at Battle Creek, Mich., and on the 2d inst. filed bankruptcy proceedings in Detroit.

EDWARD S. ELLIS, the veteran popular writer of stories for boys, has placed in the hands of the John C. Winston Company the manuscripts of three new books to be called the Arizona Series, with the following titles: "Off the Reservation," "Trailing Geronimo," "The Round-Up." The scene of these stories is in Arizona about 1885, when Geronimo and his Indians were on the war path. The last volume, which bears a name similar to that of a popular play now on the boards, is said to bring the young hero's adventures to a triumphant end in the style which Mr. Ellis's thousands of readers have long loved.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

At a meeting of the La Question Sociale group of anarchists in Paterson, N. J., April 7, Ludovico Caminita, editor of the paper, terminated his connection with the sheet, and the group decided to dismantle the publication plant and remain under cover for the time being.

The Circle, the magazine which was founded by the Funk & Wagnalls Company a year ago, has been sold this week to a new corporation known as the Circle Publishing Company. The president of the new company is Eugene Thwing, the vice-president and treasurer William Howard Hoople. These two officials are on the Board of Directors, which is composed of five members, the other three being Dr. W. Hanfl, Arthur Hoag Holland and Dr. S. T. Willis. Under the new management the editor of the magazine will be Eugene Thwing, Arthur T. Vance, who undertook the editorial direction of The Circle last May, having resigned his connection with it. Dr. W. Hanfl is the new managing editor of the magazine, a position which he formerly held in The Delineator. The company has taken new quarters in the S. P. C. A. Building, corner Madison Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street, New York City, where they occupy the entire fourth floor. It is intended to continue The Circle on practically the same lines, both as to matter and outward appearance, as those followed by its former management.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C.—The book shop of Reid & Co. has been destroyed by fire.

BOSTON, MASS.—De Wolfe, Fiske & Co. have made a proposition to their creditors to pay sixty cents on the dollar, payable in three years. It is reported that the majority of the creditors will agree to the arrangement.

MANILA, P. I.—The Stationers' Board of Trade has received word from its attorneys that it will be able to collect practically dollar for dollar on the claims embraced in its suit against the Van Buskirk Crook Company, the Supreme Court having decided in their favor after the case had been appealed from the court of first instance.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Americana Society, publishers of the American Historical Magazine and of genealogical and historical works, will remove on May 1 from their present quarters to No. 154 East 23d Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Fred A. Dibble, for several years connected with the Burrows Brothers Company and the Helman-Taylor Company, of Cleveland, O., and who later developed the newsstand and circulating library of Vinson & Korner into a full-fledged book and stationery store, has now become a large owner in the publishing brokerage business of Emerson P. Harris. In future this business will be known as Harris-Dibble Company, who will conduct the business of buying and selling publishing businesses. The service offered by them is unique, in that they seek to define and demonstrate the value of so intangible a thing as good will in connection with periodical publishing property. They have removed from the ninth to the eighth floor of the Postal Telegraph Building, 253 Broadway, where they are prepared to conduct "noiseless negotiations" for all who wish to buy or sell publishing businesses.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Oxford University Press, (American Branch,) will remove on April 20 to 29 West Thirty-second Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Reilly & Britton Co. has removed to 258, 260 Wabash Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—Tennant & Ward, publishers of The Photo-Miniature, etc., have removed to No. 122 East 25th Street.

TULSA, OKLA.—T. E. Genet, of Galena, Kan., has bought out the interest of Yeager Bros. in the City Bookstore. P. H. Hall, the other partner, retains his interest.

PERSONAL NOTES.

CECIL D. HILLS, of Hills & Co., London, and Hills & Hafeley, of New York, is on a visit to this country. We bespeak for him a hearty welcome.

HENRY A. BEEBE, who went abroad last October in the interests of the Edward P. Judd Company, of New Haven, Conn., sailed on the Philadelphia, April 4, for a similar purpose. He will spend most of his time in Germany, and will return about June 1.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE JOHN MCBRIDE CO., New York City, announce a new novel by Percy Brebner, author of "Princess Maritza," entitled "Vayenne."

CUPPLES & LEON COMPANY will publish on May 1 a new volume in their New Price Fiction Series, by Arthur W. Marchmont, entitled "My Lost Self."

THE BLACKWOODS will bring out early next month Sir Theodore Martin's "Queen Victoria as I Knew Her," the publication of which has been authorized by King Edward VII.

OWING to the immense amount of work involved in the editing of "Richard the Third," announced as the next volume in Furness's New Variorum Edition of Shakespeare, it has been found impossible to have the book ready before early summer, and the J. B. Lippincott Company have, therefore, decided to postpone the publication of the work until September of this year.

JOHN LANE COMPANY will publish on the 17th inst. "The Diary of a Looker On," by C. Lewis Hind, an English art critic, author of appreciations of Turner, Romney and Velasquez. His other books include "Adventures Among Pictures," "The Education of an Artist," "Days in Cornwall" and "Life's Lesser Moods." He has been editor of The Academy and The Pall Mall Gazette.

FORBES & COMPANY will publish on May 15 "The Smoky God, or, a Voyage to the Inner World," by Willis George Emerson, author of "Buell Hampton," etc., a marvellous tale of the adventures and discoveries of one Olaf Jansen, a Norwegian and disciple of the gods Odin and Thor, in a land far beyond the North Wind. The volume will have twelve illustrations in color by J. A. Williams.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY will bring out before the end of the month a volume entitled "Spinster Farm," by Miss Helen M. Winslow, the well-known club woman and author, who was one of the pioneers in the movement to reclaim the abandoned farms of New England. Most of the incidents and all of the characters described in the book are real, as well as the farm and farm house, unchanged since Colonial days.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY publish this week "The Garden Book for Young People," by Miss Alice Lounsberry, which is intended to carry youngsters out of doors to start a garden, and then give them the very sort of inspiring timely helpfulness that will keep them gladly at it. They will publish on April 15 "Scientific Nutrition Simplified," by Goodwin Brown, a condensed statement and explanation of the discoveries of Chittenden, Fletcher and others.

HARPER & BROTHERS publish this week "The Golden Ladder," by Margaret Potter, a story of the West dealing in a most realistic manner with a struggle between love and money-getting; "The Battle for the Pacific, and Other Adventures at Sea," a collection of stories for boys, by Rowan Stevens, William J. Henderson, Kirk Munro and others, with illustrations; also, "Harper's Indoor Book for Boys," by Joseph H. Adams, a practical and comprehensive book designed to show how a boy's leisure time indoors may be spent both pleasantly and profitably.

B. W. HUEBSCH, 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will bring out next week a work by Professor Charles Zueblin, entitled "The Religion of a Democrat." The substance of the book is the course of lectures delivered by the author outside of his regular work at the University of Chicago. The relation of the church to the state and of the individual to both is discussed in all its phases in a radical but nevertheless progressive spirit. Mr. Huebsch has in preparation in The Art of Life series a volume on "Things Worth While," by Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish early in May an interesting book, "On the Passing of Morocco," by Frederick Moore, author of "The Balkan Trail." Mr. Moore's home is in New Orleans, but he has spent the last six or seven years in travel. He served as correspondent of the London Times during the recent outbreak in the Balkan peninsula, and last August went to Morocco as special correspondent of the London Westminster Gazette. His new book will be illustrated from photographs, and will be issued simultaneously in England and America.

THE TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION, No. 33, of Providence, R. I., has published as a souvenir of the fiftieth year of its institution a work on "Printers and Printing in Providence, 1767-1907." Naturally, the work is devoted chiefly to the work of the compositor and pressman and that of the newspaper publisher; but inasmuch as the book publisher also sprang out of the early newspaper office the book has a wider interest than is apparent from its title. It is a creditable record, well printed and liberally illustrated. The book may be ordered through William Carroll, 131 Tockwotton Street, Providence, R. I.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will publish shortly a volume of selected speeches by Albert J. Beveridge, Senior Senator from Indiana. The book contains thirty-three public addresses, including speeches delivered in the Senate, others sounded as the keynotes of political campaigns, and still others of a social nature, which formed responses at club gatherings and banquets. Among the subjects of the Senator's eloquence are: Vitality of the American Constitution, The Command of the Pacific, Our Philippine Policy, State and Nation, Lincoln, Grant, Frances E. Willard, and James Whitcomb Riley.

DUFFIELD & COMPANY have just ready "The Sayings of Grandmamma," a book of witticisms by Elinor Glyn. They have acquired from the John Lane Company the publishing rights of Mrs. Glyn's "The Visits of Elizabeth," and from Harper & Brothers those of "The Vicissitudes of Evangeline," "The Reflections of Ambrosine," "The Damsel and the Sage" and "Beyond the Rocks." By virtue of this transfer of literary property Duffield &

Company become the publishers of all of Elinor Glyn's writings yet issued in America, and will bring out in the fall Mrs. Glyn's next book, to be entitled "Elizabeth Visits America."

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish at once "Critical Essays of the Seventeenth Century," edited by J. E. Springarn, adjunct professor of comparative literature in Columbia University. The aim of this work, which will be in three volumes, is to collect all the material, (save the writings of Dryden,) necessary for a thorough study of the development of English criticism in the seventeenth century, and to make this development more intelligible by annotation and comment. The collection begins where Professor Gregory Smith's "Elizabethan Critical Essays" left off; and Professor Ker's edition of the "Essays of Dryden" would, it is thought, make the inclusion of these a work of supererogation. Professor Springarn is of opinion that the attention of scholars has been centred too exclusively on Dryden, to the injury of historical perspective.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready "Frugality in the Spiritual Life, and Other Themes for Meditation," a collection of addresses by W. L. Watkinson. They will publish on April 15 "The Nez Perces Indians Since Lewis and Clark," by Kate C. McBeth, who for twenty-seven years came in daily touch with the people she describes, thus obtaining an unusually deep insight into their life and character; "The Fullness of the Gospel," by the late Dwight Moody, edited by his son, W. R. Moody, a collection of papers that originally appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal under the heading of "Mr. Moody's Bible Class," presenting some of the fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith in a simple, comprehensive form; G. Campbell Morgan's "Christian Principles," a book treating on "things which God has revealed to us;" "The Gospel of St. John," by Henry W. Clark; also, "Another Mile," by J. Wilbur Chapman, the well-known evangelist.

CASELL & COMPANY announce for publication on April 10 "The Fairyland of Living Things," by the British naturalist, Richard Kearton, illustrated by a series of remarkable photographs taken by Cherry Kearton, who travelled over 30,000 miles and spent fifteen years to secure these photographs. The book deals with the subject under the following heads: "The Romance of Bird Life," "Wild Beasts of the British Islands," "Our Reptiles and their Story," "Marvels of Insect Life," and the "Wonders of Plant Life," etc. They will bring out on April 15 the initial part of "Women of all Nations—a Record of their Characteristics, Habits, Manners, Customs, and Influence," edited by T. Athol Joyce and N. W. Thomas, which has already been fully described by us; "The Book of Ceylon," by Henry N. Cave, with maps and plans; "Byways of Collecting," by Ethel Deane; a novel by Charles Eddy, entitled "A Hole in the Coat;" and a popular edition of "The Life of Lives—further studies in the life of Christ," by Dean Farrar.

SHERMAN, FRENCH & Co., Boston, announce a three-volume set of the works of Charles William Pearson, known to authorship chiefly through "The Carpenter Prophet," which caused considerable comment and discussion at the time of publication. The present volumes are entitled "Literary and Biographical Essays: a Volume of Papers by the Way;" "The Search After Truth: a Book of Sermons and Addresses;" and "A Threefold Cord: Poems of Religion, Literature and Humanity." The literary essays cover such topics as "The Art of Poetry," "Early American Poetry," "The English Language," while the biographical chapters treat of Pope, Macaulay, Browning, Martineau, Lincoln, Longfellow, Washington and other world-figures. The "Search After Truth" reveals the author's ripe scholarship and wide erudition, with a mind and heart turned ever towards life and the light, and is an inspiring message of faith, hope and love. "The Threefold Cord" evinces the writer's fine sensibilities and cultured taste in the field of verse, where, through a wide range of rhythmic expression, the poet feels and interprets, with keen spiritual insight, many moods and experiences.

AMONG the notable additions to the Saalfield Publishing Company's line for 1908 is "Baby Dear." As the title indicates, it is a book in which to record the momentous happenings of the baby's life from its first advent into the world until it is a baby no more, but a sturdy lad or lass marching off to the call of the school bell. Choice bits of verse gathered from the poets who have sung of and praised babies and babyhood are on one page with an illustration, and facing it is a page with decorative border, with blanks to fill with the personal data. The compilation of the book is exceedingly well done by Adah L. Sutton. The illustrations and decorations which crowd between the two covers of "Baby Dear" come from the clever pen of Katharine Hayward Greenland. All are in colors. The paper used was specially made for the use of pen and ink, and will be found most satisfactory when making the entries. The book is bound exquisitely in silk, in cloth and also in boards, listing at various prices. There is a dear Dutch baby as the motif, stamped in gold, and dainty forget-me-nots as corner-pieces.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY next week will show their hopefulness for the reported "return of the essay" by following Ellen Burns Sherman's "Words to the Wise and Others," which has been so favorably noticed, with Miss Zephine Humphrey's "Over Against Green Peak," and J. A. Spender's "The Comments of Bagshot." Mr. Spender has made his mark in London as the editor of The Westminster Gazette, and his book, which seems to pretty much run the gamut of things from socialism to immortality, has received a glowing notice from that conservative review, The London Spectator. They will also publish next week the fifth volume in their American Nature Series on "American Insects," by Professor Vernon L. Kellogg. This book is a revision,

(with a brief additional chapter on reflexes, instincts and intelligence,) of one of the same name which heretofore has been issued outside of this series. It covers the entire American insect world, including moths, butterflies and beetles, to which separate volumes are sometimes devoted, and is written in the singularly interesting style that has made the author's "Darwinism To-day," (despite its subject,) one of the non-fiction books most in demand in the New York public libraries. They have in hand for probable May publication "The Quest of the Unseen," by Professor Oscar Kuhns, of Wesleyan, author of the well-liked "Dante and the English Poets," and other books.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish this week "The Heart of the Red Firs," by Ada Woodruff Anderson, the first novel by an author well known to magazine readers by several stories of the West of compelling realism, especially of the Puget Sound Country, where the scene of the present book is laid. It displays intimate knowledge of the northwestern country and conditions, and has many striking scenes, among which are a partial ascent of Mount Rainier, the raising of Alice's cabin, and her fight with the forest fire, the night chase of the Phantom, engaged in opium smuggling, Stratton's wanderings in the wilderness, and Alice's rescue of Forrest, and the discovery of his lost claim, near the Nisqually River. But the crowning achievement of the author is her portrayal of the heroine, the modern American woman in a new country, strong in executive ability, clear-headed, endowed with foresight and memory, but still distinctively feminine and always charming. The story has been illustrated by Ch. Grunwald. They announce an interesting book for publication the latter part of April, entitled "In Greece With the Classics," by William Amory Gardner. The volume consists of original translations of the legends and songs of ancient Greece immortalized by her historians and poets, connected by a brief narrative of travel to the different sites and shrines to which they refer. Mr. Gardner is a teacher at the famous Groton School. They have in preparation for early publication a new novel by Harrison Rhodes, entitled "The Adventures of Charles Edward," which, it is promised, will add to the gaiety of nations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "The Life and Letters of George Bancroft," by M. A. De Wolfe Howe, one of the most important books of biography and history in many years. Bancroft's life covered almost the entire nineteenth century, extending from 1800-1891, and touched life at almost every point, as scholar and teacher, historian, statesman and diplomatist. His acquaintance with the great men of his time was perhaps wider than that of any other American. He met, for example, Goethe, Humboldt, Byron, Lafayette, Thorwaldsen, to mention but a few of the earlier figures in European history, and maintained intimate relations with Emperor William I., Bismarck and von Moltke. His knowledge of French, English and American affairs and personages was equally extensive. They will publish shortly a work entitled "Seventeenth Century Men of Latitude," by the Rev. Edward Augustus George, sketches of the life and writings of Hales of Eton, Chillingworth, Browne, Whichcote, Taylor, Lane, Baxter and Smith, giving an original and deeply interesting account of a generally ignored but nevertheless important and illuminating phase of a period which has always passed for one of extreme religious bigotry, but during which there lived a number of gentle and liberal spirits whose work for good has been in the main overlooked because it has been so overshadowed; "The Essential Life," by Stephen B. Stanton, a profound and spirited essay on what may be called the philosophy of life; "The Money God," by John C. Van Dyke, a brilliant discussion of modern business methods and money ideals in American life to-day; also, "True Stories of Crime," by Arthur Train, assistant district attorney in New York City, which are history and fiction at once.

A. S. BARNES & COMPANY will publish on April 15 "Grammar and Its Reasons," by Mary H. Leonard, a study of the fundamental principles of our language, intended for advanced students, teachers and others interested in the development of our mother tongue; also, "Graded Games and Rhythmic Exercises," by Marion Bromley Newton, edited by Ada Van Stone Harris, Supervisor of Primary Work in the schools of Rochester, N. Y., a collection of old and new games and exercises arranged for the first four grades, with directions and suggestions, together with music and illustrations. They announce "The Song Series, Book One," by Alys E. Bentley, director of music in Washington, D. C. This book, like "The Song Primer," which it follows, is for the children, in the second grade. It contains eighty songs, of which over half are entirely new, thirty-four exercises for the development of rhythm and tonality, all of them designed to accomplish for the children unconscious voice training, and six facsimile keyboards for teaching six of the common keys and their signatures, on which the children can "play" short phrases or measures of familiar songs indicated by the teacher. It also has pictures illustrating the various songs which are printed in large, clear type. They have also nearly ready "The Child World Primer," by Geneva R. Johnston and Alys E. Bentley, the aim of which is to give life to the reading lesson, to teach without monotony and the spirit of drill, to appeal to the children's natural dramatic sense, to promote self expression and to develop the speaking voice. To accomplish this, such material only has been selected as is known to be of interest to children, and the subjects are introduced through songs which create an impulse to read the matter that relates to the songs. The book is also illustrated.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready a work entitled "Socialists at Work," by Robert Hunter, who played a prominent part in the recent occurrence in Union Square, New York City. In this book Mr. Hunter makes no attempt to discuss the principles of socialism, but confines his efforts to describing the movement and its leaders in various countries. They have also just published a biography of "Stephen A. Douglas," by Professor Allen Johnson, of Bowdoin College. The fact that this year is the semi-centennial of the historic Lincoln-Douglas debate, gives especial timeliness to this volume, which contains the first exhaustive study of Lincoln's great antagonist. The book shows Douglas as one of the most gifted political leaders this country has known, and relates in detail the career of a man who has played an important part in American history. Much of the material has been found by Professor Johnson in hitherto unpublished letters and documents and in the reminiscences of men still living or but lately deceased who knew Douglas. They will publish in the spring a volume entitled "Concealing Coloration in the Animal Kingdom." The authors are Abbott H. Thayer, the distinguished painter, and his son, Gerald H. Thayer. A few scientists have known that Mr. Thayer has been for years conducting researches and discoveries in regard to the laws governing the coloration of animals, in which his highly trained color sense has enabled him to make discoveries which would be impossible for the ordinarily trained naturalist. In consequence of these discoveries, Mr. Thayer advances a new theory of animal coloration of far-reaching significance. The thorough elucidation of this theory has necessitated the making of a great number of colored plates from drawings made by the authors and reproduced under their direct supervision. The beauty and accuracy of these illustrations will make this a notable work in natural history quite apart from the value of Mr. Thayer's discoveries and the theory which he has deduced from them.

HIGGINSON, THOMAS WENTWORTH

Things Worth While

In The Art of Life Series

The author, at 84, presents the fruit of his wisdom in eight fascinating chapters. An almost youthful work by one of the few survivors of the great period of nineteenth-century letters. 50c. net.

READY NEXT WEEK

ZUEBLIN, CHARLES

The Religion of a Democrat

The substance of this book is the course of lectures which Professor Zueblin has delivered outside of his regular work at The University of Chicago. The relation of the Church to the State, and of the individual to both is discussed in all its phases. The author's ideas are radical, but will be endorsed by the progressive spirit of the day. $1.00 net.

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any tradepaper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d per line for each week of the year that has passed.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual 1907

"No bookseller, even the humblest, if he knows his business, can afford to be without the 'Publishers' Trade List Annual,' often spoken of as 'the big catalogue book,' which contains the price lists of all the publishers of importance in the country."—The Newsdealer.

"The man who first spoke of the 'Publishers' Trade List Annual' as the 'Bible of the book trade' uttered a fitting phrase but used a simile that is open to at least one criticism. If the holy book was as often consulted by the public in proportion as the Trade List is by the bookseller the cry that it is a 'neglected book' would never be heard, for in every shop and in every public library this familiar 'jumbo' in pebbled green is in constant daily use."

—Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer.

"It sometimes happens, we know, that a dealer in a fit of misdirected economy will try to get along with his last year's Annual, but the experiment soon becomes an aggravation, for he quickly finds out that he cannot afford to have his bibliographical equipment a whole year behind hand."

—The Publisher and Retailer

Bibliographical Helps

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Book Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $4.00 a year; to foreign countries, $5.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $15.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1907

Containing in one alphabet a record of all books published during 1905-06-07; under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the entries of 1907 only with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $7.50.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume, indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

WOMAN'S CAUSE

By CAROL NORTON, C.S.D.

Author of "Studies in Character," "Poems and Verses," etc.

A book every Christian Scientist and every intelligent inquirer should read.

A striking, powerful essay on the most vital subject by the prominent exponent of the New Thought, set forth in the eloquent and forceful manner that characterizes all his utterances. Mr. Norton's genius for melody in words, shared with his kinsman, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, makes his writings graceful and delightful, while his serene faith shows itself in a spiritual quality of high order. Whether he argues or pleads, this teacher's words have all the power and authority of an inspired message.

A COMEDY OF MAMMON

By INA GARVEY

A most clever and amusing satire on the follies of the smart set of English society, with interesting side-lights on their would-be associates and imitators, very evidently produced by a writer who has a first hand knowledge of her subject. It is, however, no mere sketch, but in indirect fashion works out a plot of unique interest and startlingly appropriate conclusion. The portrait sketches by William Fuller Curtis are peculiarly artistic and effective. It is altogether the brightest piece of work since the "Visits of Elizabeth."
